
Welcome to Sani Resort

Dear Friends,

At Sani Resort we have created a microcosm, with respect to nature and man, that embraces all the joys of life with only one aim: to offer happiness to our guests.

Nature has blessed Sani and appointed us to be your hosts. For over 50 years, we have followed Greek hospitality traditions and we continue the same dream, your smile.

Dr. Andreas A. Andreadis

How the story of Sani began...

Stavros and Andreas Andreadis, along with their partner and cousin Fokion Zisiadis, were standing in front of their new project: the renovated Sani Marina and, of course, their pride and joy, Sani Asterias. They were feeling so proud and the view of the place put a smile on their faces. Their thoughts traveled back in time to when their fathers stepped on to this soil for the very first time...

1960's. Anastasios Andreadis, a very promising businessman, along with his two business associates Leonidas F. Zisiadis and Leonidas K. Zisiadis were about to embark in the small boat that would take them to this area called Sani. The weather conditions were particularly promising that morning. Despite the cold, there were clear skies and the sunlight was glorious. The sea was a little bit restless but this was by no means an obstacle. They had to reach Sani no matter what.

Halkidiki then was a place where nobody wanted to invest in land near the sea, since they believed that it was a certain way to lose money. But Anastasios Andreadis had this feeling about this malaria-ridden land he could not explain. He visualised this area in years to come and he saw paradise: turquoise waters, sandy beaches, blossoming nature, happy people. He was more than convinced that he had to buy it.

The meeting was set for this particular Monday afternoon before Easter. The four monks, representatives of the property of the Stavronikita Monastery of Mount Athos, and a lawyer were supposed to hold the final discussions. Anastasios Andreadis was nervous but confident. "This is a blessed place", he thought while the boat was approaching. He crossed his fingers and prayed that everything would go well. "I think we have reached an agreement" said one of the monks. "We most definitely have" said the lawyer. The rest of the men made a gesture of total unanimity on the subject and they waited for Andreadis to comment. He was silent. His eyes were lost in the vast blue of the sea. His thoughts were far away. Ahead. In the future. The six men held their breath, wondering what he was thinking. "We have an agreement", Andreadis said finally and smiled. And the story of Sani had begun.

Weather, nature and well-being

Sani Resort is blessed with the sun shining all year round and with a rich flora blossoming attractively each season. Having its roots in the ancient town of “Sani”, which in Latin means “health”, Sani Resort is indeed a natural spa.

It gives constant rejuvenation to your body, mind and soul while keeping your well being and health in good harmony.

Just picture this: You walk on the beach, you feel the sand under your toes, you hear the sound of the waves, see the endless blue of the sea and the green of the pine forests, breathe the fresh air, smell the salty sea breeze, dive into the crystal clear waters and feel the warmth of the sun... Your senses are seduced and you are reborn... What spa could be more therapeutic than nature itself?

Halkidiki, the secret paradise of Greece

Sani Resort is situated on the magnificent Kassandra peninsula, the first of the three beach-fringed peninsulas of Halkidiki. Sani overlooks Mount Olympus, is close to the glorious but unspoiled beaches of Sithonia peninsula, as well as Thessaloniki, one of the most beautiful cities of Europe.

A week mixing the crystal clear beaches of Sani in Kassandra, the nature of Sithonia and a touch of Thessaloniki experience gives you the Aegean's answer to Ibiza. And for those really in the mood for meditation and complete relaxation you could round off your stay in one of the monasteries of nearby Mount Athos.

Thessaloniki

The second largest city of Greece and the capital of Macedonia, Thessaloniki (also voted "Best Mid-Sized European city for human capital and lifestyle" by the Financial Times), a 45 minutes drive away from Sani Resort, is packed with theatres, clubs, an International Film Festival, two contemporary art museums, galleries, designer shops and more coffee places than anywhere else in the Europe. The theatres and coffee shops are thronged with students – this being the biggest university town in the Balkans; the walk along the shore of Thermaikos gulf is maybe the best positive vibration you will ever get and the ambience of the city and its people one of the most intense you have ever felt.

Our commitment to the environment

A privately developed hideaway set on a 1,000 acre reserve, Sani Resort in Halkidiki, Greece is blessed with outstanding natural beauty, which the company is dedicated to preserving.

Through several initiatives Sani has committed to protecting the biodiversity of its neighbouring environment and making its location a very special part of the guests' stay.

At Sani, hundreds of acres of private forest have been preserved for guests and the local community to enjoy. A dedicated Sani Forest team ensures the forest is well-managed and kilometers of forest trails can be experienced. The Sani beaches have won the Blue Flag eco-label for cleanliness and environmental awareness for the last fifteen years, and marina visitors can moor their boats in a marina that has also been awarded Blue Flag status.

Sani Resort is constantly striving to reduce its carbon footprint; solar energy and heat recovery systems are used to supply most rooms and facilities with hot water, and recycled water is used to water the grounds of the resort. As much of the waste is recycled as possible: paper, glass, plastic, cans, batteries and electrical appliances, used candles and soap, while used cooking oil from the hotel kitchens and restaurants is converted into bio-fuel. For its efforts, the Sani hotels have earned many environmental accolades and certifications, such as the Green Key eco-label awarded by the Foundation for Environmental Education, and Travelife Gold, awarded by ABTA.

The umbrella project for the company's environmental initiatives is called Sani Green. The Sani Green programme extends beyond the hotels' operation, to biodiversity protection too, as well as education. Greece is a biodiversity hotspot, with one of the highest biodiversity levels in Europe. The Sani area is adjacent to a Natura European Network area of Protected Natural Beauty and Biodiversity, the Sani wetlands. With an area of approximately 110 hectares, the wetlands are home to over 214 species of birds – almost half the total of bird species found in the whole of Greece - many of them rare and endangered. Sani invites guests to help preserve this incredible biodiversity by voluntarily contributing one euro upon check out, which the company doubles.

In doing so, Sani funds a continuous project to ensure the protection of the area, partnering with experts, as well as Birdlife International partner, the Hellenic Ornithological Society (HOS), in order to plan and implement a monitoring programme for the birds and their habitat. Sani maintains a blog about the project reporting on new species the experts document throughout their continuous study at saniwetlands.gr.

Birdwatching trips to the wetlands are offered by bike or foot for guests and local school visits are organized throughout the year.

Other Sani Green initiatives include protecting local forests in the wider Halkidiki region. The Plant a Tree programme has grown over 10,000 trees in forests that were destroyed by the devastating forest fires, with the help of a local non-profit, Friends of Urban Green.

The Sani Animal Rescue Programme is another initiative, run in association with the Halkidiki Animal Rescue charity. The programme has the aim of vaccinating and recording stray animals in the region and helping them find a home, often one with Sani guests around the world, who choose to adopt homeless dogs or cats.

In all the Sani Green events, the company considers it critical to involve guests. Educational events include children's eco-games in the forest, guided walking and biking trips, complimentary local beehives visits, and the Sani Eco Days that take place every Sunday. In rooms, the Sani Bear is sold raising money for forest projects for the charity Arcturos. Sani has also published a children's fairy tale, called "Hermes, the black-winged stilt", in cooperation with the Hellenic Ornithological society, about the Sani wetlands, its birds and what one can do to protect them. All proceeds will go towards supporting the Hellenic Ornithological Society.

It is an honour to be recognized in all our areas of focus; from guest experience to our commitment to environmental change.
